JOE WOOD GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT

Giants Find Star Boston Twirler For Seven Hits and Six Runs in First Inning-Tesreau Strong in the Pinches-Gardner and Doyle Score Home Runs-Series Now Three and Three-Deciding Game Today at Boston.

Boston, Oct. 15.—The New York Giants, pennant winners of the National league, administered a crushing defeat to the Boston Americans today by a score of 11 to 4 in the seventh game of the world's series. Tonight finds the Giants and the Red Sox waiting to engage in the final combat here tomorrow that will determine which team shall be the world's champions of 1812.

The stream of the National players showed a return to the form that had won them so many victories in the National league race in the Spring and early summer.

Manager Stahl remarked: "All clubs have form reversals, but the rebound is always violent. Tomorrow will tell another story for the Red Sox."

Receipts of $57,196.

Wood's Delivery Pounded

Wood's Delivery Pounded.

Smoky Joe Wood, the Red Sox start twirler, who had already beaten the Giants twice in the series, was sent out to pitch the Red Sox into the world's championship. His end was so swift and so sudden that the 30,000 spectators sat in silence at Fenway park as they saw Wood's delivery pounded to all parts of the field and six Giants race over the home plate before the last New Yorker was put out in the first inning.

The Red Sox never recovered from that first inning and though they peppered away fitfully at Teareau's moist ball they never came withing threatening distance of the Giants. Manager McGraw in the coacher's bondown off third base directed the attack on Wood's delivery. He gave orders to hit the first ball pitched and with few exceptions all of the nine men who connected with Wood in the first inning, rapped the first ball that Wood sent up to the plate. This shower of hits, combined with a double steal, paved the way to New York's six runs.

Thereafter, Wood was a broken reed.

Thereafter, Wood was a broken reed, and Charlie Hall, Boston's relief pitcher, was sent in to the box. Some of the Giant players seemed to think that Wood had broken under the strain of his two earlier games in the series.

His curve ball had little break to it, and the Giants had no trouble in hitting his fast ones.

Bedient vs. Mathewson.

The Red Sox have Hugh Bedient to go on the firing line for the deciding game tomorrow, with Joe Wood prepared to go to his assistance, while the Giants will depend on Christy Mathewson, with Rube Marquard held in reserve.

Tesreau had the whip hand over the Red Sox throughout the game. His moist ball broke sharply over the plate and the Red Sox were unable to fathom his delivery when hits would have scored runs. Twelve of the home team were left on bases because of the inability to touch Tesreau's services for the needed hit. Although New York had a commanding lead throughout the game, McGraw kept Mathewson warmed up down off left field to reliefe Tesreau in case the wet ball twirler weakened.

York shortstop took second on the throw in. Big Jeff Tesreau, the ninth New Yorker to go to the plate in the inning, singled past Wood, and Meyers came home with the fifth run. Fletcher and Tesreau then attempted a double steal, but Tesreau was caught between the bags, but not before Fletcher and Tesreau then attempted a double steal, but Tesreau was caught between the bags, but not before Fletcher and Tesreau then attempted a double steal, but Tesreau was caught between the bags, but not before Fletcher and Tesreau then attempted a double steal, but Tesreau was caught between the bags, but not before Fletcher and Tesreau in case the wet ball twirely was a sacrifice hit, and two stolen bases was the result of the inning, the bags, but not before Fletcher and Tesreau in the inning, singled past Wood, and Meyers came home with the fifth run. Six runs, seven hits, a sacrifice hit, and two stolen bases was the result of the inning.

First Home Run of Series. After making the cluster of sh runs in the first inning, the Giants scored another tally in the second, two more in the sixth, one in the seventh and one in the minth inning. The Red Sox sent their first run across in the second when Gardner shot a screaming home run into the right field seats, the first circuit drive of the

Two more runs were scored in th seventh and another in the eight by the home club. Captain Doyle of New York drove a liner into the crow in right field for a home run in the sixth, sending in Devore ahead of him. There were seven strike outs in the game. Herzog was the only man on the New York team to fan. The Red Sox who struck out were Hooper twice, Yerkes, Gardner, Wagner and Cady once each.

Cady once each.

The game was loosely played in the field, while a constant gale of wind made it difficult for the fielders to get under fly balls. Devore and Speaker, however, made brilliant catches. Play was suspended frequently during the game when dense clouds of dust swirled across the diamond.

While the Giants were at field practice all the members of the Red Sox team were called into the club house for a talk with President McAleer and Manager Stahl behind closed but towards two o'clock a wind storm came up accompanied by heavy dark clouds, and the temperature fell, making it uncompertfable for spectators and players alike. Thick clouds of dust swept across the field when the game began.

"Reliable Joe" Wood, who had two victories to his credit, was given a hearty cheer when he stepped into the box. Wood's first offering to Devore was called a ball and the next ball pitched was hit to Wagner. The shortstop could not field it to first in time and Devore was safe. Doyle ripped a single to center and Devore advanced to second. Glenn Warner Has Great Athlete to Bring Crowds Out to Games.

Glenn Warner, coach of the Carlisle Indian eleven, skilled above any of his rivals in the ability to pack stadiums where his elevens appear, will have this year in the presence of Jim Thorpe the greatest drawing card on the footbal held. Thorpe, frash from his triamphs in the Olympic games at Stockholm, is now the best known athlete in the world. He would be famous were he a white man, but to be the most notable of ad-round performers, and notable of all-round performers, and also an indian, thus carrying all the romance that goes with aboriginal extraction, is going to mean a rush to see Thorpe perform on the gridfron.

This is a big consideration at Carlisle, where there is no athletic association to furnish funds to support the team, no rich graduates to come to the rescue. The government does not make any allowance for the training of the squad nor the support of foot-ball. This puts the proposition sharply up to Warner, and he has shown his ability to make good. His fast-flying fighting Indian teams have for nying inguing indual teams have for the past decade proved the best draw-ing cards of all football elevens. MORE EXCITING CONTESTS. A. A. Stagg Believes Football Will Be

. Thrilling This Year.

"Football fashions will be decidedly bold and daring this fall. Spectacular effects in forward passes will be much used, and the open game in general will be popular. The delicate pastel shades will be superseded by the real red-blooded article of gridiron pastim; This forecast of the season's trend in football matters is founded upon Coach A. A. Stagg's opinions upon the new rules which are in the timelight at the University of Chicago. The maroon director guarantees a maximum of boredom for the 1912 rooters. rooters.

Coach Stagg is particularly interested in the removal of the so-called 20-yard gone from the statutes governing the forward pass and the provision that a touchdown shall result when forward pass is received beyond the goal line in the new 10-yard end zone.

As Coach Stagg has been chief exploiter of the pass since its adoption in 1996, his plans concerning the change are of no less interest to coaches, players and fans. The maroon teacher has stuck to the forward pass with undiminished faith throughout its history and the indications are that he will continue to use it as the most striking part of his repertory. He was unable because of illness to attend the 1912 meeting of the rules committee, but he has accepted the change in good part and promises to utilize it for new and startling variations of open field play.

"With no limit whatever on the for-

"With no limit whatever on the forward pass this year, the game will be mighty interesting, to say the least," he asserted in commenting on the rules. "It will be a case of continual surprises for the players and for the spectators, and nobody will be able to say that he hasn't had his share of sensations when the game is over. Any number of sensational things are likely to harrown. It is quite simple. likely to happen. It is quite simple. Some player takes a notion to make a record breaking throw to a teammate near the goal line or beyond it. Bingo! A touchdown has been scored—maybe. There is no doubt but that this change is highly important and will affect the game in many ways. "Beyond doubt the new rules have strengthened the offense and weakened the defense. It will probably be common to see a small team unable to furnish a worthy defense sgainst a strong machine, and yet spring an effective attack. The thing is likely to work both ways, of course. I de not wish to discuss the intentions of the rules committee in adding a fourth down in 10 yards. I think it is true that a rushing game will frequently, result from this change, but am not prepared to say to what extent the old-style bucking game will be revived." strengthened the offense and weakened
